Sisters Beach, TAS, acknowledged for its efforts at the Australian Clean Beaches Awards

Sisters Beach in Tasmania was announced runner up in the Energy Innovation category award in the Keep Australia Beautiful, Australian Clean Beaches Awards 2010/11.

The awards were held this afternoon in South Australia, hosted in association with last year's national winner South Port Beach Noarlunga, represented by South Port Surf Club, other local community groups, and the City of Onkaparinga Council.

According to the Australian Clean Beaches National Judge, Dr David Moy, "Solar powered street lights have been used in the reserve at Sisters Beach for energy efficiency and the conservation of resources. The Devil's Gully revegetation program and retention of some of the last virgin dune area are also highlights of community action at Sisters Beach.

"A 40 kilometre an hour speed limit also exists throughout the village which makes for a cycle and pedestrian friendly shared roadway which is another great environmental initiative encouraging sustainability", Dr David Moy added.

Chairman of Keep Australia Beautiful National Association, Don Chambers, said "Climate Change impacts such as rising sea levels, on top of other human and environmental stresses, could see many of our coastal systems pushed beyond their tipping point so that the landforms and ecosystems no longer function as they should."

"The Clean Beaches Awards and their participants provide great examples of what individuals and their communities can achieve in protecting and improving the coastal environment by working together sustainably. Well done to the whole community in and around Wynyard/Sisters Beach Tasmania for your efforts", Don Chambers added.

Through the Australian Clean Beaches Awards, Keep Australia Beautiful is able to recognise local community and individual efforts that are helping rural and regional communities to become environmentally, economically and socially sustainable.
